Your Excellency:

The Council of Asian Liberals and Democrats (CALD), in its Executive Committee Meeting held on June 29, 2010 in Makati City, Philippines bestowed an honorary individual membership title to Daw Aung San Suu Kyi, Nobel Peace Laureate, Burma's leader of the opposition, and one of Asia's most revered icons of democracy.

Attached is the honorary individual membership certificate for your reference.

CALD, founded in 1993, is a regional alliance of liberal and democratic political parties in Asia. Its full members include the Liberal Party of the Philippines, the Democrat Party of Thailand, the Democratic Progressive Party of Taiwan, the Liberal Party of Sri Lanka, the Sam Rainsy Party of Cambodia, the Singapore Democratic Party, the Malaysian People's Movement Party (Gerakan), the National Council of the Union of Burma (NCUB), and the Indonesian Democratic Party of Struggle (PDI-P). The Liberal Forum Pakistan is an associate member while Hong Kong legislators Martin Lee and Sin Chung-kai are individual members. The observers of CALD include the Democratic Party of Japan, the Nation Awakening Party of Indonesia (PKB) and Civil Will Party of Mongolia.

Through the years, CALD has cultivated partnerships with the Friedrich Naumann Foundation, Liberal International, Alliance for Liberals and Democrats for Europe, Alliance of Democrats, Taiwan Foundation for Democracy, National Democratic Institute for International Affairs, and Liberal Network for Latin America.

Should you have any questions or clarifications regarding this matter, you may contact Dr. Neric Acosta, CALD Secretary General and Member of the Membership Committee through the CALD Secretariat's landline number (+632) 496-1388.

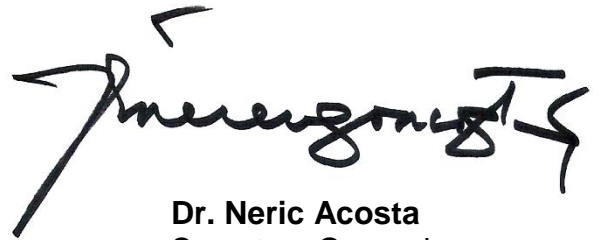

In bestowing this honorary individual membership title, we again express our unwavering support and solidarity with Daw Aung San Suu Kyi, the members of the opposition, and the people of Burma in their struggle for justice, freedom and democracy.

Sincerely yours,
